

SEBASE currently considers traditional models of software engineering:

- large companies
- . . . with many resources (people, time, money)
- . . . which permit expensive, time-consuming (and effective) processes

Our own experience suggests this is not the typical environment of many software engineers.

Modern Software Engineering

